Ngawiyia (turtle)
Origami

The Endeavour was damaged on its way north, and so Captain Cook beached it near Gungardie (now Cooktown) for repairs. While there the sailors caught some turtles to eat, but refused to share with the Guugu Yimithirr people in the area, who called them ngawiyia. The two groups argued, but later made up. This is the first recorded moment of ‘reconciliation’ between Europeans and Aboriginal Australians.
